“Little Girl” gets a home in “Fatherville”

Hit song, “Little Girl,” by E. Walter Smith and Star Search finalist, Tatiana McConnico makes visitors at Fatherville.com feel “at home” for Father’s Day

Michael E. Farrell and the Fatherville organization have started their Father’s Day celebration by providing a link to the new hit song “Little Girl,” on their home page. Written and performed by international recording artist, E. Walter Smith, this beautiful duet features 16 year old, Star Search finalist, Tatiana McConnico.

“The mission of Fatherville is two-fold,” say Farrell, “First to improve the well-being of children by inspiring and equipping men to be more effectively involved in the lives of children. Second, to encourage, challenge, and educate fathers to become actively engaged in the lives of their children. “Fatherville.com will be emailing “Little Girl” to our members. Thanks, ‘E,’ for this wonderful reminder of the relationship between fathers and their little girls,” says Farrell.

The increasing trend towards “fatherlessness” in America inspired Farrell to establish Fatherville in 2005. Much of their activity goes towards conducting research on fathers and fathering, and developing practical resources to prepare dads for various fathering situations.

“There are so many ways that fathers can impact the lives of their children. I’m blessed to have a dad that is still involved in my life in a major way. The mission of Fatherville is timely and I am sure that many fathers will find the resources they have provided to be very helpful. I’m honored that they has chosen to use my song as part of their Father’s Day promotion,” says Smith.
